London sees third stabbing of the new year

Viscount Road. Two incidents after the first two days of 2014

A woman is in hospital in serious condition after she was stabbed in a third-floor apartment unit at 760 Viscount Rd. just before 12:30 p.m. Thursday.

A man suspected of the stabbing was also taken to hospital after he either jumped or fell from one of the unit's windows.

He was listed as stable. Police haven't divulged the identity of the victim or the suspect, but the case is believed to be a domestic incident.

No charges have been laid against the man as of 3 p.m. and police spokesman Const. Ken Steeves said no weapon had yet been seized.

The area below the window was taped off and investigators dotted the snow with red evidence markers. Among the debris inside the tape was a wool mitten, broken tree limbs and a crumpled bicycle.

There appeared to be a bloody handprint on the window above.

A young man clutching his chest and appearing to be in pain said he was in the unit when the stabbing occurred and that he was injured while trying to stop the man.

He spoke briefly before giving his statement to police, and said the suspect had tried to stab him as well.

"I got hurt trying to hold him before the police got

The stabbing is the third in less than 24 hours after a 23-year-old man was charged in connection to a New Year's Day stabbing in the area of Richmond and King streets.

Catlin Ireland, of no fixed address, is accused of two counts of aggravated assault and one count of possessing a weapon while prohibited.

He said the victim is a friend of his parents.

Others who live in the building said they heard nothing out of the ordinary, but one man said the area has become rife with booze and drugs and that police are often at one of two neighbouring complexes.

Police are asking anyone

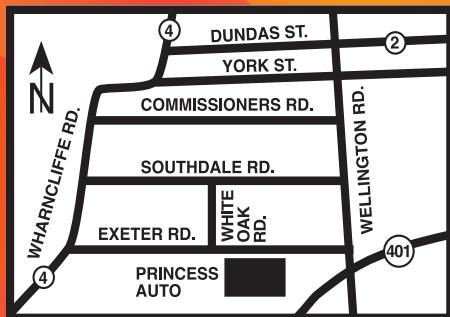

A 32-year-old woman and a 46-year-old man both sustained non-life-threatening injuries in the incident, which was witnessed by police officers at about 6:35 p.m.

Police say the four people involved are known to each other. A woman who was arrested was released without being charged.

Ireland was scheduled to appear in court Thursday morning.

Police numbers show cybercrime on the rise

Manpower. London cops have been helping battle child-porn related online crime, but Chief Brad Duncan says there will always be a backlog

 SCOTT TAYLOR
scott.taylor@metronews.ca

London Police laid more cybercrime charges relating to child porn in 2013 than in 2012, and those numbers are expected to rise next year, said police spokesman Const. Ken Steeves.

Through Nov. 30, 292 charges were laid against 42 suspects. There were only 195 charges in 2012.

Police Chief Brad Duncan has said recently that he could add officers to the cybercrime unit, have them work around the clock and there would still be a backlog.

Recent cases include collaborations with U.S. Homeland Security in which suspects were arrested and children believed to have been sexually abused were liberated south of the border.

London police also participated in an international child porn investigation that saw 341 people arrested and 386 children rescued. The scope of that investigation included police from around the world.

"Each arrest is a success in the combat of crimes involving the online abuse against children," said Steeves.

"In 2013, we not only arrested 42 people within our city, but we were able to reach out to authorities in the United States, where a total of three

Candidates for city council get set for Oct. 27 election

Ready to race. First day of registrations sees 10 candidates come forward

mike.donachie@metronews.ca

City hall's doors opened to council candidates Thursday, and there was a lineup to register.

It was the first day people could file papers for the Oct. 27 election, and 10 presented themselves at the city clerk's office.

And eight of the 10 candidates were there to challenge incumbents and force a change in municipal politics.

As the office opened at 8:30 a.m., licensing and elections manager Sarah Corman already had four people there.

First was Denise Brown, councillor for Ward 11, whose papers were registered at 8:31 a.m. Close behind was Ward 4 Coun. Stephen Orser, at 8:36 a.m.

By 8:39 a.m., Ward 14 — currently held by Sandy White — had a challenger in Steven Hillier, with Stephen Turner filing papers to contest Brown's Ward 11 at 8:55 a.m.

As the day went on, brothers A. Eric Haidar and Jesse Haidar registered for Wards 9 and 12 respectively — challenging councillors Dale Henderson and Harold Usher — followed by Randy Warden (Ward 5, currently Joni Baechler), Virginia Ridley (Ward 10, Paul Van Meerbergen) and Greg Munro, for Ward 6, where Nancy Branscombe has said she will step down.

"It's time for real people who are really representing what the community is wanting, to run for city council," said Ridley, a mother of two and an administrative assistant.

"I think London deserves better than what we have right now," said Jesse Haidar about the present council. "We need to attract employment into the city of London."

The other candidate was the first runner in the race for mayor. Dennis Perry, 30, who works in a gas station and has no political experience, said he wants to have more focused job-creation policies.

"The city needs some balance right now," said Perry. "A lot of people are saying that we either have trees or we have jobs. I say that you've got to balance it all out."

He said city spending must "get a good deal" instead of spending "haphazardly" on economic development.

Two floors down in his office, Mayor Joe Fontana told Metro he doesn't intend to file papers until May or June. Fontana said he wants to continue to work hard as mayor and leave the political campaigning until later in the year.

And they're off — Sarah Corman, licensing and elections manager, with the first paperwork filed by municipal candidates. MIKE DONACHIE/METRO

Time to recycle your Christmas tree

Sick of that Christmas tree? The city has a range of ways to get rid of it for you.

And the plea from city staff is to keep it green, even when it's turned brown.

Six special drop-off depots have been set up across London for Christmas tree recycling.

Until Friday, Jan. 10, Londoners can drop off their tree at these six depots:

South — Amway (Exeter Road by White Oak Road, west end of parking lot.)

South — Mitches Park (Upper Queens Avenue parking lot.)

Central — St. Julien Works Yard (south end of St. Julien Street.)

East — Stronach Park (Beckwith Avenue parking lot.)

West — Springbank Park (west entrance parking lot by Boler Road.)

North — Adelaide Works Yard (Adelaide Street North at Kipps Lane.)

Masonville Place, near Nash

Jewelers, is no longer a depot.

Christmas trees and holiday greenery can also be taken to a community EnviroDepot or held until the first green week in the spring.

Trees may also be placed out at the curb with regular garbage, but will not be composted when collected with garbage.

The city is also asking people to remember to remove all decorations, including tinsel and garlands.

Infrastructure report

Roads and more:
City looks into
state of its assets

The city has pointed to a new report showing its infrastructure is in "fair" to "good" condition.

The 2013 State of Infrastructure Report is to be presented at the city's corporate services committee next week.

London has about $11 billion worth of core infrastructure, including sewers, roads and parks.

But there's a problem. The coming budget process, and the new council to be elected this year, must find a way to plug the infrastructure funding gap.

Currently at $52.1 million, it represents the difference between the budget to maintain infrastructure and the actual cost of work that needs to be done.

City staff have estimated the gap could grow to $466.1 million by 2022 if nothing is done.

So plans are underway. The city said Thursday it will publish a document to "provide a broad base for developing solutions to address the infrastructure concerns." That's due early this year, a statement said.

As for that infrastructure report, it won't be available until Jan. 14. It will be published on the city website London.ca.

Much of the infrastructure may be fair to good, but seven per cent of assets are in "very poor" condition, the city statement adds, meaning they must be replaced.

Our big chill: Cold alert issued for London region

The Middlesex-London Health Unit (MLHU) has issued the first cold-weather alert of the year for London and Middlesex County.

With the wind chill, the outside air was close to -30 C Thursday and Friday in London.

The alert will remain in effect until Saturday, when temperatures are expected to rise to -3 C.

"The temperatures we're expecting over the next couple of days will be cold enough to cause damage to exposed skin and could lead to hypothermia. It's very important for people to bundle up and dress for the conditions if they intend to spend time outdoors," said MLHU manager of environmental health Iqbal Kalsi in a release. "While we recommend limiting the time you spend outdoors today and tomorrow, if you have to be outside dress in layers and cover exposed skin as much as possible."

The health unit has warned local agencies that provide shelter and assistance to homeless people to prepare for an increase in demand for their services.

Meanwhile, pet owners face the same cautions when the air becomes this frigid. London Humane Society executive director Judy Foster said if it's too cold for humans, it's too cold for their pets — regardless of how much that pet may act like it wants to be outside.

"Dogs want to go with you in the car when it's hot out, too, but you don't leave them in the car because you know they'll overheat," she said. "It's the same when it's this cold out."

The biggest risks to pets are frostbite, hypothermia and harm to paws from the cold and chemicals used to prevent humans from slipping, such as salt.

"During walks, a dog's feet, legs and belly may pick up antifreeze, or other chemicals that could be toxic," Foster said.

"When you get back inside, wipe down or wash your pet's feet, legs and belly to remove these chemicals."

Part of the South Street Hospital complex shivers in the winter weather Thursday. The site is set to be cleared as the area is regenerated.

Fences up for South Street demolition

The walls aren't ready to come tumbling down just yet, but fences are in the midst of being installed for the eventual demolition of South Street Hospital in SoHo.

There's still the matter of a community open house Jan. 8 for residents in the area to talk with LHSC and city officials, but soon after the building will begin to come down "piece by piece," as SoHo Community Association president Tanya Park described it.

that will be directly affected by noise and I haven't heard too many things from them," she said.

The work will occur throughout much of this year.

Most of what was inside the structure has been removed.

In some cases, it is now being used elsewhere.

"They've dismantled it piece by piece and they've taken a lot of the stuff to Habitat for Humanity, which is nice to see because people have a lot of sentiment for the hospital. Knowing that pieces of it are elsewhere in the city is encouraging," Park said.

After train fires, U.S. officials issue alert about Bakken oil

Flammability. Crude shipped from Bakken oil patch is potentially more volatile than the traditional variety

Following a string of explosive accidents, federal officials said Thursday that crude oil being shipped by rail from the Northern Plains across the U.S. and Canada may be more flammable than traditional forms of oil.

A safety alert issued by the U.S. Department of Transportation warns the public, emergency responders and shippers about the potential high volatility of the crude being shipped from the Bakken oil shale patch in Montana and North Dakota.

The warning comes after the massive explosion caused by an oil train derailment on Monday near Casselton, N.D.

No one was hurt, but worries about toxic fumes prompted the evacuation of hundreds of residents.

The oil boom in the Bakken has reduced the nation's reliance on imported oil and brought thousands of jobs to the region. But as companies have increasingly relied on trains to get that oil to lucrative coastal markets, public safety in communities bisected by rail lines has become a major concern.

In July, 47 people were killed in Lac-Mégantic, Que., when a train carrying Bakken crude derailed. Another oil train derailed and exploded in Alabama in November, killing no one but releasing an estimated 749,000 gallons of oil from 26 tanker cars.

The amount of oil moved by rail has spiked since 2009, from just more than 10,000 tanker cars to a projected 400,000 cars in 2013.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Safety alert

Thursday's safety alert was partly due to results of preliminary tests on Bakken oil to determine just how dangerous it is, said Jeannie Shiffer with the U.S. Department of Transportation's Pipeline and Hazardous Materials Safety Administration.

Shiffer said it is important to know the volatility of the oil so that it can be properly handled during shipping.

The issue of volatility is of particular importance for emergency responders who have to deal with accidents like the one in Casselton, said Fred Millar, a rail safety consultant in Virginia.

H1N1. Young parents embracing flu shot: Poll

Increasing numbers of adults in their child-rearing years are becoming convinced that getting a flu shot for themselves and their children is a good idea, a new poll suggests.

The Harris/Decima poll, done for The Canadian Press, found that those aged 18 to 34 and those with children in their households were the two demographics that had the highest rates of flu-shot converts than any other.

"What appears to be occurring is that over the years younger Canadians and parents are particularly becoming more convinced that they will do it (get a flu shot) in the coming year if they haven't done it very often in the past five," said Doug Anderson, senior vice-president for public affairs for the polling firm.

With this year's flu season shaping up to be an H1N1 year, that's a good thing.

Newly released data from researchers at the British Colum-

Less than 20 per cent of children under age five have antibodies to H1N1 viruses. That's not really a surprise; they would have been born after the 2009 pandemic that brought the H1N1 virus into the mix of flu viruses that circulate during the Northern Hemisphere winter. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Chopper swoops in to rescue ice-trapped ship passengers

Safe and sound. Three icebreakers failed at reaching ship trapped in the Antarctic since Christmas Eve

All 52 passengers trapped for more than a week on an ice-bound Russian research ship in the Antarctic were rescued Thursday when a Chinese helicopter swooped in and plucked them from the ice a dozen at a time.

The dramatic international rescue operation became possible once the weather finally cleared. Blinding snow, strong winds, fog and thick sea ice forced rescuers to turn back time and again.

The twin-rotor helicopter — its red and yellow colours contrasting starkly against the ice and snow — carried the scientists and tourists from the Russian ship MV Akademik Shokalskiy to an Australian icebreaker, according to the Australian Maritime Safety Authority's Rescue Coordination Centre, which oversaw the rescue.

At one point, the passengers linked arms and stomped out a landing site in the snow next to the Russian ship for the helicopter, which is based on a Chinese icebreaker.

The eagerly anticipated rescue came after days of failed attempts to reach the vessel, which was trapped since Christmas Eve.

The passengers were instead flown to an ice floe next to the Aurora and then taken by a small boat to the Australian ship, said expedition leader Chris Turney.

The icebreaker Aurora Australis will take the passengers to the Australian island state of Tasmania, a journey expected to last two weeks.

"I think everyone is relieved and excited to be going on to the Australian icebreaker and then home," said Turney. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rwanda's ex-spymaster found dead in Johannesburg

Rwanda's former spy chief, Patrick Karegeya, seen in an undated photo in Kigali, was found dead in a Johannesburg hotel Thursday. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS FILE

The body of Rwanda's former spy chief was found, possibly strangled, in a hotel in South Africa, police said Thursday. Rwandan dissidents accused President Paul Kagame of ordering his assassination.

The suspicious death of Patrick Karegeya, a former Kagame ally who turned against him, follows a pattern of assassinations ordered by the Rwandan president, said Theogene Rudasingwa of the opposition coalition Rwanda National Congress. Kagame's government denies it has targeted dissidents.

Karegeya's body was discovered in a room at Johannesburg's plush Michelangelo Towers hotel on New Year's Day, and many questions remain unanswered in a country with a high crime rate.

"He was found in the hotel room dead on the bed," said a statement from South African police spokeswoman Lt. Col. Katlego Mogale. "A towel with blood and a rope were found in the hotel room safe. There is a possibility that he might have been strangled." She said a murder investigation has been opened in the death of the 53-year-old who reportedly fled to South Africa in 2007.

Gunmen twice tried to kill Kagame's former chief of army staff, Lt. Gen. Kayumba Nyamwasa, while he was living in exile in Johannesburg in 2010. Nyamwasa told The Associated Press in 2012 that Kagame has hunted him and other dissidents around the world, "using hired killer squads."

Egyptian authorities produced on Thursday what they said was a confession by the son of a senior member of the Muslim Brotherhood, trying to bolster accusations that the Islamist group has links to al-Qaida-inspired militants.

In a news conference, the interior minister aired the recording, said to be of Yahia Mongi, son of a Brotherhood lawmaker, in which he says he joined a militant group that took responsibility for a suicide bombing of a provincial security headquarters last month, as well as other attacks. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Disappearing privacy. Snapchat quiet after hacking exposes users

Snapchat, the disappearing-message service popular with young people, has been quiet following a security breach that allowed hackers to collect the usernames and phone numbers of millions of its users.

Spokeswoman Mary Ritti said Thursday the company is assessing the situation.

As Americans rang in the new year, hackers reportedly published 4.6 million usernames and phone numbers on a website which has been suspended. The breach came less than a week after security experts alerted Snapchat of a vulnerability in its system and warned that an attack could take place. In response to the warning, Snapchat said in a blog post that it had implemented "various safeguards" over the past year that would make it more difficult to steal large sets of phone numbers.

$3 billion offer

The incident bruises the image of a young company that reportedly turned down a buyout offer from Facebook.

Solution: Buy heavier safe

Thief carries 250 lb. safe out of eatery

Massachusetts police are searching for a strong-armed thief who carried a 250-pound safe out of a restaurant.

Kevin Hynes says a man walked out of his Stockholders Steakhouse in Weymouth on Sunday night lugging the vault. Surveillance tape shows the man entering a side door, heading down the stairs and coming back up carrying a large object wrapped in a trash bag.

No arrests have been made.

Hynes isn't saying how much money was in the safe, but he's offering a $2,500 reward for information leading to the man's arrest.

He says he's since bought an even heavier safe and bolted it to the concrete floor.

MIT. Researchers have found a new way to render 3D images of people and things in remote locations

Researchers at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology have found a way to allow people in one place to interact with three-dimensional versions of people or objects in a different location.

MIT's Tangible Media Group calls the technology inFORM. A person in one location moves or puts an object in front of a depth-sensing camera. That camera sends signals to a motorized pin screen somewhere else and that's where the 3D image pops up. If someone on camera is moving his hands, for example, that movement would show up on the pin screen in another location.

They hope the technology can eventually be used by urban planners and architects. It could also be used by doctors and others who need to look at CT scans.

Don't worry, be happy: Buyers of legal pot

Dylan Aragon, the first to buy recreational pot at Marisol Therapeutics.

THE PUEBLO CHIEFTAIN/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Long lines and blustery winter weather greeted Colorado marijuana shoppers testing the nation's first legal recreational pot shops Wednesday.

It was hard to tell from talking to shoppers, however, that they had waited hours in snow and frigid wind.

"It's a huge deal for me," said Andre Barr, a deliveryman who drove from Michigan to be part of the legal weed experiment. "This wait is nothing."

The world was watching as Colorado unveiled the modern world's first fully legal marijuana industry — no doctor's note required (as in 18 states and Washington, D.C.) and no unregulated production of the drug (as in the Netherlands). Uruguay has fully legalized pot but hasn't yet set up its system.

Colorado had 24 shops open Wednesday, most of them in Denver, and aside from long lines and sporadic reports of shoppers cited for smoking pot in public, there were few problems. "Everything's gone pretty smoothly," said Barbara Brohl, Colorado's top marijuana regulator.

Shoppers didn't seem fazed by the wait, the prices, or the state and local taxes that totalled more than 25 per cent.

HERE'S LOOKING AT YOU, FUTURE

Looking backward with pride and forward with hope? Probably not, but I have peered deep into my crystal ball, emerging with a clear vision of the coming year.

The good news is, 2014 will likely not be as crazy as its predecessor, but then again, if I am your go-to psychic, then you're screwed already. Here is what you can expect:

1 is the new black. 45 will be the new 30, cannabis will be the new tobacco, prescription A.D.D. meds will be the new crack, and all will serve as criteria for Toronto's new mayoral candidates.

2 Why so secret? Edward Snowden will gain enough public support to be exonerated for his alleged crimes, but will continue to find his friends a little stand-offish.

3 Bad girls playing good. Lindsay Lohan makes a comeback, generating Oscar buzz for her portrayal of a young Mother Teresa.

THE METRO LIST

Mike Benhaim

metrone.ca

4 Baby mama once more. Kim Kardashian will get pregnant again and give daddy Kanye West a son who shall be named Wild-Wild.

5 Totally believable scenario. Justin Bieber will pay German officials to retrieve his monkey, which will be trained to walk his new bulldog, pick up its poop and fling it at unattractive or overweight fans.

6 Bad girls going God. Miley Cyrus will make a spiritual pilgrimage to the Middle East, where she will consume the unknown fruit of a mysterious tree that will cause her to feel modesty and cover her nakedness with a fig leaf and a fragment of parchment. And army boots.

7 X-actly what we need. The X Factor USA judge Paulina Rubio will leave the show to judge The X Factor Mexico. She'll be replaced by Nicki Minaj for a win-win situation where Mexico gets a mentor whose insight can finally be understood, and the American version maintains the delicate balance of verbosely incoherent babbling.

8 Bynum, by then. Andrew Bynum, one of the NBA's most overpaid per-game players ever, will join the Miami Heat for the league minimum. Bynum's propensity for off-court shenanigans that lead to injury and his subsequent indifference will lead to his attempted strangling by team captain LeBron James during a nationally televised game. Bynum will sue for millions but will still manage to be bankrupt by 2015.

9 Hollywood K.O. 2013 brought the Knockout Game into public consciousness. It involves one person sucker-punching an unsuspecting victim while another films it for public consumption on YouTube. In 2014, the brutal pastime will spawn a new reality series where each week, a different Hollywood celebrity will be filmed sucker-punching Perez Hilton.

10 Sounds about right. Neither the Maple Leafs nor the Canadiens will earn a playoff berth in 2014. This may not be a revelation, but is more likely to come true than any of the above.

So, dear friends, remember to love like you've never been hurt and dance like no one's watching, but if you actually catch someone watching, put your clothes back on immediately. Happy new year!

Martians-to-be shortlist announced

COURTESY BRYAN VERSTEEG/MARS ONE

75 Canucks make list

Since he was a young boy, eagerly devouring science fiction books, Stephen Fenech has dreamed of being an astronaut.

Now, the Toronto man is a bit closer to reaching his lofty dream after learning that he is one of 75 Canadians selected as a candidate for a one-way mission to Mars.

"I'm vacillating between excitement and terror," said the 45-year-old seasoned traveller, who's visited 160 countries. "When I imagine myself not just in another country but on a whole other planet, I would be so jazzed about being there."

The mission is being organized by Mars One, a Dutch-based not-for-profit. On Monday it announced that of about 202,500 applicants worldwide, 1,058 hopefuls had been selected as potential candidates. They will be whittled down to a group of up to 40 people, who will then train for about seven years.

An unmanned mission is slated for 2018, with Lockheed Martin in charge of building the Mars lander.

Retirement years

"I know I'd be the guinea pig.... And I know I'm taking a chance.... But the way I see it is that my life will be winding down at that point anyway, so I might as well do something that's so fulfilling, not just to me but to our entire race."

Stephen Fenech, who figures that by the time the mission takes place he will be close to retirement, and ready for a new chapter.

$1.5 billion a head

$6B

The goal is for Mars One to send the first crew of four in 2024, with additional groups departing every two years. It's an ambitious — and costly — project. Getting the first group to Mars will cost $6 billion, with every additional manned mission costing $4 billion. To finance the endeavour, the private organization is relying on sponsors and public support. Just last month it launched a crowdfunding campaign. As well, there are ongoing negotiations with media companies for the rights to a reality-TV show that would track the training process.

ANDREW FIFIeld

Another iOS Kickstarter success story, République arrived on the App Store to much fanfare before Christmas. A hugely ambitious episodic stealth-action adventure, wrestled down to iOS size, it puts you in the role of Hope as she is held captive in a building run by an unpleasant totalitarian government. Needless to say, her captivity is short-lived.

Controls tend to be the biggest obstacle when it comes to shoving an action game onto an iOS device, but République nimbly clears that hurdle with a simple one-touch interface. Navigating Hope through each level begins and ends with a single touch wherever you want to place her. Of course, this being a stealth game, you're equipped with a tool that allows you to view your surroundings and their patrolling enemies by hacking into security cameras — once again with one-touch control.

The beautiful animation and convincing voice acting leaves little doubt that developer Camouflaj is hoping to force a huge evolution in touchscreen gaming, and the first instalment of République is a convincing case that they're onto something. (iOS/$4.99)

Synopsis

Out with the old and in with the new: 2013 contained many magnificent movie moments (and some bad ones as well, but let's not dwell on those) for the Reel Guys and it looks like 2014 will be just as bountiful. This week we gaze into our cinematic crystal balls and choose the films we're looking forward to in the new year.

On tap for 2014: Another RoboCop reboot. CONTRIBUTED

Reel Guys

CROUSE AND
MARK BRESLIN

Lookahead. From The Equalizer to 50 Shades of Grey, the Reel Guys make their movie picks for 2014

Richard: Mark, years ago I loved a show called The Equalizer. It starred Edward Woodward as a private detective who helped people in need "equalize the odds." It was a cool show, and as much as movie versions of programs like The A-Team and Starsky and Hutch have disappointed, I'm looking forward to this. Denzel Washington is masterful at playing ambiguous antiheroes and re-teaming him with his Training Day director Antoine Fuqua seems like a good idea to me.

Mark: Richard, I don't know the show but I do like Denzel, I do like Fuqua and I do like the concept. One movie I am looking forward to is The Monuments Men with George Clooney, Matt Damon and John Goodman as civilians pressed into battle during the Second World War to save art treasures from the Nazis. This should hit all the bases for me.

RC: Clooney is always cool, and he also directed the movie, so I'm keen to see it. I'm also very excited for The Zero Theorem. Terry Gilliam says his new film is the third part of the trilogy he began with Brazil and continued with 12 Monkeys. If that isn't enough, it stars Christoph Waltz and Matt Damon. And did I mention it sprung from the wild mind of Terry Gilliam?

MB: Reality check: Whose last movie was the unwatchable The Imaginarium of Doctor Parnassus. When Gilliam stinks he stinks up the whole room. Just saying.... If it's sci-fi you're looking for, how about the RoboCop reboot, a franchise that's had more reboots than an Ugg store? Or Transcendence, which has a Philip K. Dick meets Body Snatchers sound to it. Appeals to the paranoid side of my split personality Richard...

RC: I liked Parnassus! It was like a Salvador Dali painting come to life! Gilliam Rules! But there are other things I'm looking forward to, like Maleficent. The creepy but beautiful Sleeping Beauty villain is a role Angelina Jolie's cheekbones were born to play. If the movie is as cool looking as the clips I've seen, I'll go for the art direction alone.

MB: Sure, but I think we're both ignoring what must be the Greatest Movie of 2014 — the cinematic adaptation of the great novel Fifty Shades of Grey. C'mon, Richard, admit it, you'll be second in line to see it, only because I got there the night before... and I understand James Franco is playing the handcuffs.

There's having a super-power and then there's discovering all the different things you can do with it. That's the delight impressively recreated here in LEGO for a whopping 155 characters. Each has a really long list of abilities put to creative use both for fighting in adventures and exploring a free-roaming city. Compared to past LEGO games the brick-building moments are fewer and farther between, but the sense of discovery is endless, which is ideal for a game parents can share with their kids. KRIS ABEL

Remakes and sequels

Transformers: Age of Extinction (June 27)

Mark Wahlberg takes over for Shia LaBeouf as the human stand-in amid Michael Bay's gargantuan metal extravaganza, now on its fourth installment. Fingers crossed for dinobots.

volved, especially considering all of the sinking ship jokes critics could make if it falters.

X-Men: Days of Future Past (May 23)

Bryan Singer steps back into the director's chair for the franchise he started 14 years ago, bringing together a massive cast combining actors from the original films and the most recent X-Men: First Class for a time-hopping storyline cribbed from the comics. It's almost too much to take.

Captain America: The Winter Soldier (April 4)

Chris Evans' Cap gets his first solo outing since The Avengers in a story that pits him both against a mysterious terrorist with connections to his past and his own government, in the form of S.H.I.E.L.D. boss Alexander Pierce (Robert Redford).

Godzilla (May 16)

It's been more than 15 years since Roland Emmerich's go-at-the-giant monster franchise landed with a thud, so maybe it's safe to unleash the big green guy again, this time in a film starring Bryan Cranston.

Jack Ryan: Shadow Recruit (Jan. 17)

This Tom Clancy franchise reboot was supposed to hit theatres this Christmas, but Paramount pushed it back a month. If anything, it should keep the latest Jack Ryan, Chris Pine, busy between Star Trek outings.

More remake-queles

RoboCop, The Expendables 3, The Hunger Games: Mockingjay — Part 1, 22 Jump Street, Horrible Bosses 2, Muppets Most Wanted.

Big gamblesNoah (March 28)

Darren Aronofsky follows up Black Swan with a massive, super-expensive biblical epic starring Russell Crowe as the most famous ship-builder ever. A serious gamble for all in-all we know is that it's by Christopher Nolan and it involves wormholes and space travel and it stars, among others, Matthew McConaughey, Anne Hathaway, Jessica Chastain and Michael Caine. So we're basically already there.

Guardians of the Galaxy (Aug. 1)

It's nice to see Marvel and Disney feeling free enough with their massive successes to get a little weird. This also-ran but beloved comic line features a talking, gun-toting raccoon (voiced by Bradley Cooper), an ambulatory tree and all sorts of other oddities, with the Avengers nowhere in sight. But it could just make Chris Pratt officially a movie star.

Maleficent (May 30)

While technically using an existing property, Disney is taking quite a risk by making one of their biggest baddies (embodied by Angelina Jolie) the main character of her own movie. Sleeping Beauty won't know what hit her.

Future cult favouritesVeronica Mars (March 14)

The little Kickstarter campaign that could is officially getting a big theatrical roll-out as opposed to the limited, VOD-heavy release they'd initially planned. The follow-up to Rob Thomas' cult-classic TV show about a high-school private eye (Kristen Bell) has a wave of goodwill behind it, with a growing audience base willing it to succeed.

Jupiter Ascending (July 25)

After not enough people turned out for their ambitious Cloud Atlas, the Wachowskis

The Amazing Spider-Man 2 (May 2)

Sony's holding on tight to its Marvel property, pitting current Spidey Andrew Garfield against a host of threats like Electro (Jamie Foxx), the Rhino (Paul Giamatti) and the Green Goblin. Plus, they've got a series of spin-off movies to launch.

head off-world for a science-fiction adventure starring Channing Tatum and Mila Kunis.

Knight of Cups (TBA)

Without even a solid release date nailed down, all we know about Terrence Malick's latest is that it stars Oscar-winners Christian Bale and Natalie Portman and it's about "a man, temptations, celebrity and excess." Sounds interesting.

The Grand Budapest Hotel (March 7)

Wes Anderson follows up the delightful Moonrise Kingdom with what appears to be the most Wes Anderson film of all time with a jam-packed cast including Ralph Fiennes, Tilda Swinton, Bill Murray, Edward Norton and Jude Law.

The Lego Movie (Feb. 7)

Possibly the most welcome

film adaptation of a children's toy in movie history — call it the anti-Transformers — this animated adventure looks to be pop-culture-skewering fun, with Chris Pratt, Morgan Freeman and Liam Neeson leading an all-star voice cast.

Based on a bestsellerDivergent (March 21)

The presumptive next big sci-fi film franchise based on a young-adult book series kicks off with Shailene Woodley starring as a special girl challenging a dystopian society.

Gone Girl (Oct. 3)

David Fincher takes on Gillian Flynn's bestseller about a woman who disappears on her anniversary, with Ben Affleck and Rosamund Pike heading up an eclectic cast that also includes Neil Patrick Harris and Tyler Perry.

Unbroken (Dec. 25)

Christmas next year will bring Angelina Jolie's second film as a director, again with harrowing themes. This time it's the true-life tale of an Olympic runner and Japanese Second World War prisoner of war, from a book by the author of Seabiscuit.

Inherent Vice (TBA)

There's no release date set for Paul Thomas Anderson's adaptation of Thomas Pynchon's deliriously odd-ball 1970s surfer noir, but it can't come out soon enough as far as we're concerned. An inspired director and source material pairing.

Edge of Tomorrow (June 6)

Hiroshi Sakurazaka's futuristic novel All You Need is Kill gets the big-screen treatment with Tom Cruise starring as a soldier caught in an alien war version of Groundhog Day.

The Monuments Men (Feb. 7)

George Clooney stars in and directs this story about a team of art specialists sent to rescue masterpieces stolen by the Nazis. Originally slated for a Christmas release but delayed, we're hoping it's more Ocean's Eleven than The Good German.

Long-awaited fourth season will no doubt delight Downton fans

Much more to come.

Executive producer says there will be more than five and fewer than 10 seasons of the PBS show

As it returns for its much-awaited fourth season, Downton Abbey remains a saga about elegance, tradition and gentility — and the pressures of preserving them.

On the premiere, airing Sunday at 9 p.m. EST on PBS, Lady Mary Crawley has buckled under the weight of widowhood six months after her husband, Matthew, perished in a car crash. Inconsolable at the start of the episode, Mary (played by Michelle Dockery) dismisses their infant son as "a poor little orphan."

Her father, Lord Robert Crawley (Hugh Bonneville), wrestles with business pressures: the death of Matthew and the absence of a will have thrown the Downton manor, already financially fragile,

It has gained a firm foothold in the culture, won 10 Emmys and two Golden Globes, and found a robust audience that rose to the challenge of calling it Downton, not Downtown. Last season's finale drew 8.2 million U.S. viewers, most of them left shattered by Matthew's demise as they faced the long wait to see how the Downton elite and underclass would cope.

In November there was a bit of good news for rabid fans with the announcement that, yes, next year there will be a fifth season. That news freed viewers to fret about their favourite show's fate beyond 2015: How many years will Downton carry on?

Just ask Downton executive producer Gareth Neame. Everybody else has.

The sky's the limit for LaBeouf's mea culpa

Shia LaBeouf may have finally managed to write an apology for plagiarism that is not, itself, plagiarized. The Beef came under fire recently when it came to light that his short film Howard-Cantour.com bore similarities to Daniel Clowes's comic Justin M. Damiano. The actor has since apologized several times, but since his apologies themselves seemed cobbled together from other works, it was hard to believe he was taking his transgression seriously.

Well, now at least he's working on it. Early this Thursday morning, Shia tweeted a pic of the words "I am sorry Daniel Clowes" in skywriting.

He didn't just photoshop that skywriting either. According to Variety, LaBeouf's contrition was visible across the L.A. sky on Wednesday.

"Mr. Clowes, I can only ask that you view my apology as a stepping stone toward repairing this misunderstanding between us. I'm sorry," he tweeted on New Year's Eve. All this may or may not come as any comfort to Mr. Clowes, who lives in San Francisco, not L.A. MELINDA TAUB/METRO

If Facebook is any indication, many of you are reminiscing about the last 12 months. Not me. I'm all about the future and booze trends that will define 2014.

Gazing into my crystal wine goblet, I see Old World wines solidifying their comeback. I'm talking the juice squeezed out of France, Italy and Spain easing you out of your South American rut.

That's not to say the New World won't see brighter days. Australia will show signs of rejuvenation with smaller wineries from specific regions making their personalities known.

Whites will gain ground from reds, while red blends will continue to attract the palates of the population.

Wines from a box will be invited to the dinner table, and second-tier grapes like aglianico, albariño and garnacha will be on the tip of your tongue.

The most ground-breaking trend will be flavoured wines, especially those made with, wait for it, chocolate. Chocolate Shop Red ($15.95 - $15.99) and ChocolatRouge Sweet Red ($13.99 - $17.99) have already brought their confectionary flavour flow to store shelves. I guarantee that more will follow in 2014. PRICES REFLECT RANGE ACROSS COUNTRY. SOME PRODUCTS MAY NOT BE AVAILABLE IN ALL PROVINCES.

Predictions. Experts have checked the old crystal ball and report that the veggie of the year will be — wait for it — cauliflower

Cauliflower is the new kale, salt is the new pepper and doughnuts and burgers are going gangbusters — at least, that's what food-trend watchers are predicting for 2014.

"I would say that cauliflower is the new kale and will definitely surpass kale this year," says Christine Couvelier, executive chef and global culinary trendologist. Cauliflower can be mashed, grilled, broiled or

Ingredients

- 1 head roasted garlic
- 1 1/2 lb Yukon Gold potatoes cut into wedges, unpeeled
- 1 lb raw cauliflower, broken into pieces
- 2 cups diced onions
- 2 tsp vegetable oil
- 1 tbsp brown sugar
- 1 tbsp olive oil
- 1 tbsp sesame oil
- 1/4 cup 2% milk
- 3/4 cup frozen shelled edamame, blanched
- pinch of salt and pepper

cut in steaks and barbecued, served on its own or in salad or tossed with herbs and oils.

Here, it's teamed with edamame to add more nutrients and flavour to regular mashed potatoes. Roasting the vegetables brings out a more intense flavour than boiling, as does the addition of sweet caramelized onions.

1. Preheat oven to 400 F. Line a baking sheet with foil sprayed with vegetable oil. Cut the top off the garlic head and wrap with foil and place on the baking sheet along with the potato and cauliflower. Spray the vegetables with vegetable oil. Roast for 30 minutes or just until tender, turning occasionally. Squeeze out the cloves of garlic.

2. Meanwhile, add onions to a skillet along with the vegetable oil and sauté on medium heat for 10 minutes just until tender.

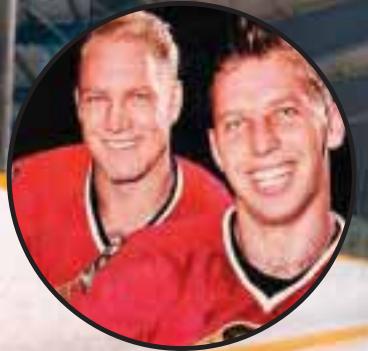

Add the brown sugar and sauté for another 5 minutes.

3. Mash potato wedges with skin in a large bowl. Place the cauliflower in a food processor along with the olive oil, sesame oil and milk and purée. Add to the mashed potatoes along with the onions, garlic cloves and edamame. Add the salt and pepper. THE BEST OF ROSE REISMAN (WHITECAP BOOKS) BY ROSE REISMAN/ FILES FROM THE CANADIAN PRESS

Pale, patterned and pretty all over

The house that hues built. Pastel shades and retro inspiration set to dominate home decor in 2014

Whether you're seeking to make a minor ripple or sizable splash in your home in 2014, prognosticators are hoping to help make the new year a stylish one with predictions of noteworthy new looks in decor.

Suzanne Dimma, editor-in-chief of House and Home Magazine and Benjamin Moore colour expert Sharon Grech share their views on notable trends and suggestions on how to incorporate the changes within your interiors.

Cool hues

Colour trendsetter Pantone opted for vibrant pop with the selection of Radiant Orchid — a purple hue infused with hot pink — as its colour of the year for 2014.

But the ultra-bold shade seems to be the exception

Benjamin Moore paint colour Lavender Mist is seen on the walls while paint colour White Dove is used as the trim. BENJAMIN MOORE/THE CANADIAN PRESS rather than the rule with a sleek yet more subdued palette of colours emerging for home interiors.

Paint manufacturer Benjamin Moore selected Breath of Fresh Air — a pale, sky blue hue — as its colour of the year. While there were several examples of deep blue, teal and purple featured in its 2014 Colour Trends Guide, the company's standout hue for the new year was among a vast array of softer shades like Distant Gray, Peach Parfait and Lavender Mist.

Grech said the intention was to create a collection of colours that weren't specific to one particular style as has been customary in the past.

"Even though it's often the most economical part of your design project, it takes up a lot of space. And if you get that too strong, that's what you'll notice," she said in reference to paint colour choice. "Even if you spend a ton of money on your new sofa or your Carrara marble countertop, if you get the paint colour wrong, it throws everything off."

In the vein of paler hues, Dimma suggested opting for a soft grey which she described as "a new neutral."

"That's a huge change from white, and that will imbue everything with so much warmth," she said.

Pretty patterns

From the walls to tables to floors, there are no shortage of spaces to adorn with colourful prints. House and Home spotlighted blue and white dishware, painted tiles, whimsical wall murals and geometric wallpaper and fabrics among its decorating dos for 2014.

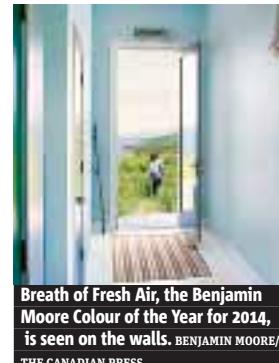

For those seeking to make a splash with a fresh print, Dimma suggested seeking out a Persian or Turkish rug. "That's an easy thing. Roll out a new rug and you're going to get a whole new look."

Classic and contemporary

While rugs and wall coverings are decidedly more bold, there is a more minimalist approach being seen in other core pieces for the coming year. Dimma hig h - lighted '50s-inspired chairs as well as more contemporary sculptural lighting fixtures, both of which conjure a modern vibe.

She isn't surprised to see the gravitation towards retro-inspired '50s and '60s-era furnishings.

"When you think about it, we always find through cycles in design that we look back and then we make it new again, and it's probably just at that point in the cycle," said Dimma. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Casey named coach of the month in the East

Toronto Raptors head coach Dwane Casey was named NBA Eastern Conference coach of the month Thursday.

Casey guided the Raptors to an 8-6 record in December, including road wins over the Dallas Mavericks and Oklahoma City Thunder.

The Raptors (15-15) posted six road victories last month and have won seven of their last nine games overall. Toronto visits the Washington Wizards on Friday night.

Jeff Hornacek of the Phoenix Suns was named Western Conference coach of the month.

Knights' goalie on the road back

OHL. Liam Herbst has endured multiple surgeries on knees, hips

dave.langford@metronews.ca

The London Knights made goalie Liam Herbst their first selection in the 2012 Ontario Hockey League draft.

So it seemed a touch strange that it took more than 18 months for Herbst to record his first OHL victory as a member of the Knights.

"Personally, I didn't think he'd be playing games until November so he's way ahead of schedule from where I thought he'd be," Knights goalie coach Bill Dark said less than 12 hours after Herbst's breakthrough victory in Sarnia.

Ah yes, the devil is in the details.

The facts are that Herbst, now 17, has had multiple surgeries on his knees and hips since his draft day back in 2012 and he did not play at all during the 2012-13 season.

And this year, he has played most of his hockey at the junior B level, where he has a 9-5 record with the London Nationals and was selected the conference goalie of the month for November.

With Knights starter Anthony Stolarz away with the U.S. team at the world juniors, Herbst has earned some OHL playing time, backing up Jake Patterson.

On Wednesday in Sarnia, he played the final 43 minutes, relieving Patterson. He gave up the final two goals in the Knights' 8-6 comeback victory. It was his second appearance and his first victory.

Herbst said the Sarnia victory led to a sleepless night.

"I was very excited. My whole family was there," Herbst st said. "They came actually from the Winter Classic game (in Michigan), so it was a busy day for them ... it was a good day for the family."

Herbst agreed with his coach that he might be playing ahead of schedule.

"Yes, I think I'm back earlier than everyone expected," Herbst said. "I don't know hockey-wise but as far as health-wise, it was great getting back. Lot of work, lot of tough work in the summer to get where I am today and it's really paid off."

Dark said Herbst still has plenty of work ahead of him.

"He's just to keep getting more games, more experience and get stronger," Dark said.

"With him, it's, 'Let's see where he is at the end of the year. Let's see where he is after a summer of training.' That's going to be the key."

One step at a time.

OVERTIME with Micheal Ray Richardson

NBL Canada. Lightning facing winds of change

Eighteen and counting.

That's the number of players the London Lightning have dressed for various games this season.

So after centre Curtis Withers left the team Monday to join a pro team in South Korea, the Lightning only dressed 10 players Wednesday — they are permitted to dress 12 — but it was enough to stop the arch-rival Windsor Express 92-82.

"This is what this league is all about. In this league, guys don't make a lot of money. So if they get offers to go other places to make twice the money, you have to go," Lightning head coach Micheal Ray Richardson said.

"We don't want to keep guys here who have kids, who have families trying to earn a living."

Withers was the second player this week to leave the Lightning to greener pastures. On Sunday, Jason Forte played his final game before heading to France to join a professional team there.

Others have left for disciplinary reasons, while some were simply not good enough. The result has been what's seemed like a revolving door of players, causing many fans to find it difficult to follow their favourites.

"Do we have a revolving door here? No, we don't have a revolving door," Richardson said. "We had to make some changes for the betterment of the team and if you look in the D League, they made 300 changes last year."

No. 19 for the Lightning this season will be Stephen McDowell, a five-foot-11 guard who played 20 games two seasons ago for Summerside, P.E.I. He will be eligible to play once he gains NBL approval.

The league office does not reopen until Jan. 6, so McDowell will not be able to dress for the two weekend games — Saturday night in Brampton against the A's and Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m. against the Ottawa Skyhawks at the Budweiser Gardens.

Meanwhile, Lightning GM Taylor Brown continues to look for a 12th player to replace Withers. DAVE LANGFORD/METRO

Curtis Lazar and defenceman Derrick Pouliot also scored for Canada, which is 20-0 and has a 130-34 goal advantage all-time against the Swiss at the world juniors.

This one was not as easy as previous meetings with the hard-working and team-play-oriented Swiss, despite the boost from a pro-Canadian crowd of 2,580 at the Issadore. The boisterous fans spent much of the game chanting goalie Zach Fucale's name.

The Canadian squad had to battle the trap throughout the game but managed to score the first goal for the first time in five tournament games. Scott Laughton brought the puck to the net and Reinhart scored on Canada's third whack from a scramble in the crease.

Canada is assured of finishing in the top four of the tournament for the 16th year in a row, although they lost their semifinal and finished out of the medals a year ago in Ufa, Russia. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Horoscopes

Aries

March 21 - April 20

No matter how outrageous your ideas may seem to some, you must trust your instincts and follow up on them. Allow your inner voice to guide you and don't be surprised when it all works out perfectly.

Taurus

April 21 - May 21

The planets will present a solution to a problem you thought was here to stay. You should know that everything worth knowing is revealed over time, so be patient.

Gemini

May 22 - June 21

It seems you have been talking at cross purposes with a loved one and that is why you have not been getting along. It is time to sit down and be honest with one another. Yes, of course you can be friends again.

Cancer

June 22 - July 23

Your mind is extraordinarily active at the moment and that's good, but make sure you write down any insights you have, otherwise you may forget them by the end of the day.

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

Do something creative today. The current cosmic climate makes it easy for you to give form to your ideas. It also makes it easy for you to impress important people.

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

Something that made no sense before will make perfect sense today. Most likely the thing itself has not changed but the way you look at it has. Next time, try listening to what friends try to tell you.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

Even if you are one of those rare Librans who prefers to keep thoughts private, you will have plenty to say today. The only danger is you may reveal too much valuable information.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

News you have been waiting for will arrive today and put an end to a worrying phase. Whether the news is good or bad is unimportant. What matters is that at last you know where you stand.

Gemini

May 22 - June 21

Whatever you decide over the next two or three days will have a major effect on your future, so think ahead and make sure you are embarking on a course that is right for you. Don't listen to others, listen to yourself.

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

Try not to live in the past or lament your mistakes, because what happens next will make up for what you appear to have lost. Resolve to always look forward and never look back.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

You appear to believe that the whole wide world is against you. Stop the foolish imaginings and look on the bright side for a change. Life is what you choose to make of it.

Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

Whatever your special talent is, put it to good use. If a chance arises in your work or career, grab it with both hands and don't worry that you may not be up to the task. You'll ace it.
